Die Band sagt über sich selber:

simply live music is life music !

KRUGERRAND's credo 'Simply live music is life music' clearly points out the attitude of the band: nowhere else than on stage a live band can prove it's strengths and perform at full force.

There is no human organism on this planet which is not confronted with music or music-like sounds within its area of life. On top of this, every human being is in fact possessing its very own instruments: hands (rhythm), feet (rhythm), voice (sounds, singing).

KRUGERRAND is convinced that no life is supposable without music. Music connects people, it transports and generates emotion, it can be an outlet, it encourages hundreds and thousands of people to get together to experience live music.

Because simply live music is life music!
